

Digital Signage Solutions for Law Enforcement Agencies

Rapid, coordinated communications are critical in law enforcement

With multiple audiences, including a mobile workforce, a correctional division, and the public, law enforcement departments must deal with disseminating an enormous amount of information. That's why they are turning to Hughes Digital Media Solutions to help manage their communications.

Hughes Digital Media Solutions deliver dynamic, content-rich audio and video, replacing print media with modern digital display panels. Law enforcement agencies can present key information such as department-wide news, command updates, training, and public announcements with high impact, media-rich presentations.

Digital Briefing Board

With a digital bulletin board, departments can keep staff informed and current with the latest information.

- Distribute up-to-the-minute command updates to all locations
- Relay departmental news, announcements, and event information
- Distribute instantaneous alerts to all locations from anywhere in the country
- Manage all digital briefing boards from one location

Inmate Communications

Ideal for education-based incarceration programs, jails and prisons can employ Hughes Digital Media Solutions to deliver education and entertainment keeping inmates busy and engaged.

- Provide announcements, instructions, and entertainment in housing and high-traffic areas
- Conduct educational, vocational, and life-skills training programs
- Use entertainment-rich media via a private television network
- Provide information in multiple languages for non-English speaking inmates

Digital Media Solutions at a Glance

- Combine internal communications, live and on-demand training, and digital signage in a single solution
- Deliver content to multiple sites within a building or to an unlimited number of sites across the county, state, or the country
- Create unique content for each site
- Use compelling video, text, and RSS feeds to communicate key messages
- Insert local messaging

Employee Training Made Easy

The on-demand training capability enables law enforcement agencies to provide training when and where it's needed.

- Deliver high-impact training to officers and other employees
- Offer live learning modules that can be archived for later review
- Enable mobile staffers to access online training—on-demand when it works for them
- All forms of multimedia can be utilized for training applications; including images, presentations, and videos
